Numb. 322.

THE Pennſylvania GAZETTE.

Containing the freſheſt Advices Foreign and Domeſtick.

From January 28. to February 4. 1734,5.

Mr. Franklin,

BEING old and lame of my Hands, and thereby uncapable of aſſiſting my Fellow Citizens, when their Houſes are on Fire; I muſt beg them to take in good Part the following Hints on the Subject of Fires.

In the firſt Place, as an Ounce of Prevention is worth a Pound of Cure, I would adviſe 'em to take Care how they ſuffer living Brands-ends, or Coals in a full Shovel, to be carried out of one Room into another, or up or down Stairs, unleſs in a Warmingpan ſhut; for Scraps of Fire may fall into Chinks, and make no Appearance till Midnight; when your Stairs being in Flames, you may be forced, (as I once was) to leap out of your Windows, and hazard your Necks to avoid being over-roaſted.

And now we talk of Prevention, where would be the Damage, if, to the Act for preventing Fires, by regulating Bakehouſes and Coopers Shops, a Clauſe were added to regulate all other Houſes in the particulars of too ſhallow Hearths, and the deteſtable Practice of putting wooden Mouldings on each ſide the Fire Place, which being commonly of Heart-of-Pine and full of Turpentine, ſtand ready to flame as ſoon as a Coal or a ſmall Brand ſhall roul againſt them.

Once more; If Chimneys were more frequently and more carefully clean'd, ſome Fires might thereby be prevented. I have known foul Chimneys burn moſt furiouſly a few Days after they were ſwept: People in Confidence that they are clean, making large Fires. Every Body among us is allow'd to ſweep Chimneys, that pleaſe to undertake that Buſineſs; and if a Chimney fires thro' fault of the Sweeper, the Owner pays the Fine, and the Sweeper goes free. This Thing is not right. Thoſe who undertake Sweeping of Chimneys, and employ Servants for that Purpoſe, ought to be licenſed by the Mayor; and if any Chimney fires and flames out 15 Days after Sweeping, the Fine ſhould be paid by the Sweeper; for it is his Fault.

We have at preſent got Engines enough in the Town, but I queſtion, whether in many Parts of the Town, Water enough can be had to keep them going for half an Hour together. It ſeems to me ſome Publick Pumps are wanting; but that I ſubmit to better Judgments.

As to our Conduct in the Affair of Extinguiſhing Fires, tho' we do not want Hands or Good-will, yet we ſeem to want Order and Method, and therefore I believe I cannot do better than to offer for our Imitation, the Example of a City in a Neigbouring Province. There is, as I am well inform'd, a Club or Society of active Men belonging to each Fire Engine; whoſe Buſineſs is to attend all Fires with it whenever they happen; and to work it once a Quarter, and ſee it kept in order: Some of theſe are to handle the Firehooks, and others the Axes, which are always kept with the Engine; and for this Service they are conſider'd in an Abatement or Exemption in the Taxes. In Time of Fire, they are commanded by Officers appointed by Law, called Firewards, who are diſtinguiſh'd by a Red Staff of five Feet long, headed with a Braſs Flame of 6 Inches; And being Men of Prudence and Authority, they direct the opening and ſtripping of Roofs by the Ax-Men, the pulling down burning Timbers by the Hookmen, and the playing of the Engines, and command the making of Lanes, &c. and they are impowered to require Aſſiſtance for the Removing of Goods out of Houſes on fire or in Danger of Fire, and to appoint Guards for ſecuring ſuch Goods; and Diſobedience, to theſe Officers in any, at ſuch Times, is puniſhed by a Fine of 40 s. or Ten Days Impriſonment. Theſe Officers, with the Men belonging to the Engine, at their Quarterly Meetings, diſcourſe of Fires, of the Faults committed at ſome, the good Management in ſome Caſes at others, and thus communicating their Thoughts and Experience they grow wiſe in the Thing, and know how to command and to execute in the beſt manner upon every Emergency. Since the Eſtabliſhment of this Regulation, it ſeems there has been no extraordinary Fire in that Place; and I wiſh there never may be any here. But they ſuffer'd before they made ſuch a Regulation, and ſo muſt we; for Engliſhmen feel but cannot ſee; as the Italian ſays of us. And it has pleaſed God, that in the Fires we have hitherto had, all the bad Circumſtances have never happened together, ſuch as dry Seaſon, high Wind, narrow Street, and little or low Water: which perhaps tends to makes us ſecure in our own Minds; but if a Fire with thoſe Circumſtances, which God forbid, ſhould happen, we ſhould afterwards be careful enough.

ordinary

Let me ſay one thing more, and I will be ſilent. I could wiſh, that either Tiles would come in uſe for a Covering to Buildings; or elſe that thoſe who build, would make their Roofs more ſafe to walk upon, by carrying the Wall above the Eves, in the Manner of the new Buildings in London, and as Mr. Turner's Houſe in Front-Street, or Mr. Nichols's in Cheſnut-Street, are built; which I conceive would tend conſiderably to their Preſervation.

Let others communicate their Thoughts as freely as I have done mine, and perhaps ſomething uſeful may be drawn from the Whole.

I am yours, &c.

BOSTON, December 16.

To Mr. GREENWOOD, Holliſian Profeſſor of Mathematicks and Aſtronomy at Cambridge.

Occaſioned by his late aſtronomical Lectures.

Quum tu inter ſcabiem tantam et contagia lucri,
Nil parvum ſapias, et adhuc ſublimia cures:
Quæ mare compeſcant cauſæ, quid temperet Annum:
Stellæ ſponte ſua, juſſæne vagentur et errent:
Quid premat obſcurum lunæ, quid proferat orbem;
Quid velit et poſſit rerum concordia diſcors.

Hor.

LET groveling Miſers count their ſordid ſtore,
And ſcramble in the Dirt to rake up more:
Stateſmen with Pomp their cheated Fancy pleaſe,
And to their Grandeur ſacrifice their Eaſe:
Ambitious Kings may on their Subjects prey,
And butcher Millions for a Span of Clay:
Solid Content in vain they wiſh to find;
Nothing below can ſatisfy the Mind.
By GREENWOOD taught, to Heaven we're upward born,
And think this little World deſerves our Scorn.

Hail generous Man! by whoſe Aſſiſtance led,
The Paths of Ignorance no more we tread:
Before thy Face dark Error clears away,
And Truth breaks out with a reſiſtleſs Ray.

While you the vaſt Abyſs of Æther trace,
And point us out the boundleſs Lines of Space;
We ſtrive to follow, but we ſtrive in vain,
The Mind ſinks down, nor can the Flight ſuſtain:
Our ſtrongeſt Thoughts grow feeble as they run,
And Fancy ſtaggering faints before the Journey's done.

If up to Heaven we turn our wond'ring Eyes,
And view the ſhining Glories of the Skies,
The Sun's bright Face with Pleaſure we behold,
While numerous Planets thro' the Æther roll'd
In conſtant Rounds, a ſtrict Attendance pay,
And from his genial Beams receive the Day.

But if we farther ſearch th' æthereal Height,
And urge on a full Stretch the aching Sight,
Amaz'd, unnumber'd dazling Orbs we ſpy,
And ming'ling Rays promiſcuous ſtrike the Eye:
The weary'd Mind from Light to Light is toſt,
And Thought amidſt a Groupe of Worlds is loſt.
If optic Glaſſes lend their friendly Aid,
And to more diſtant Regions ſight's convey'd;
Still greater cauſe of Wonder we explore,
And the Eye viſits Orbs unſeen before.
Millions of Worlds in various Orbits roll,
And Harmony and Order grace the Whole.

Great GOD! what Voice could into Being call
Theſe mighty Globes, and form this beauteous ALL!
What Power can all their various Motions guide?
And from what Hand but thine are they ſupply'd?

GREENWOOD, with what Delight we hear you prove
The hidden Laws by which thoſe Bodies move,
Deſcribe the Rings that ſhape their rapid Courſe,
And bring to light Attraction's wondrous Force.
Now kind'ling Meteors through the Heavens may riſe,
And blazing Comets ſweep along the Skies:
No more we'll gaze with ſuperſtitious Fear,
While you the ſecret Laws of Nature clear,
Explain the Power that rules the burning Maſs,
And point the Limits which it cannot paſs:
Till the Almighty ſtrikes it from its Path,
To bear along the Tokens of his Wrath;
Then from his Hand the flaming Vengeance hurl'd
Shall into Ruins cruſh a guilty World.

Long may you ſtay below to chear our Sight,
Inform our Mind, and ſet our Judgment right:
And when your Soul ſhall upward take it's way,
To join great NEWTON in the Realms of Day,
Nature unveil'd, you clearly ſhall behold,
And find her ſuch as you before had told,
Graſp all her Motions at one ſingle View,
And be well pleas'd to find your Doctrine true.

PHILADELPHIA, February 6.

Extract from the Votes of the Houſe of Repreſentatives, Jan. 21.

It being moved by a Member of this Houſe.

THAT the Repreſentatives of this Province, at their Seſſions in Auguſt laſt, had taken into Conſideration certain Reſolutions of the Houſe of Lords, in January 1733, relating to his Majeſty's Plantations in America, and the Laws there made and to be made, and that by the ſaid Reſolution it was Ordered, that the Judges ſhould prepare and bring in the Heads of a Bill at the then next enſuing Seſſions of Parliament. And it being then the unanimous Opinion of the ſaid Houſe of Repreſentatives, that ſhould ſuch Bill take Effect, the gracious Intent of the Royal Charter granted to William Penn, Eſq; late Proprietary and Governor of this Province, by His Majeſty's Predeceſſor King Charles the Second, would in a large Meaſure be defeated, and the Province of Pennſylvania be laid under very great and preſſing Hardſhips, the ſaid Houſe had Reſolved, that Inſtructions ſhould be given to their Agent reſiding in London, for making a proper Repreſentation to the Parliament of Great Britain (ſhould a Bill be brought into the ſame, purſuant to the Reſolution above-mentioned) of the true State and Condition of this Province, and of the unhappy Tendency and Conſequence of ſuch a Bill, in Regard to all it's Inhabitants.

And, That LEWIS MORRIS, Eſq; late Chief Juſtice of the Province of New-York, being gone for Great Britain, whoſe Experience and Abilities, as well as his known Affection to theſe Colonies, and his Intereſt in their Proſperity, render him very capable of doing them conſiderable Services, and of aſſiſting this Province in particular, by repreſenting in a juſt and proper Manner, the many Hardſhips and Diſcouragements an Act of Parliament, purſuant to the Terms of the ſaid Reſolutions, would lay them under.

And thereupon mov'd, That the ſaid Lewis Morris be joined in the Agency of this Province, during his ſtay in Britain with Ferdinando John Paris, Eſq;

And after Debate, the Queſtion being put, it was Reſolved in the Affirmative.

Ordered, That the Committee appointed to correſpond and treat with our Agent, do with all convenient Speed, tranſmit to Col. Morris a Copy of this Reſolve, under the Great Seal, and in the Name of this Houſe, to requeſt the ſaid Col. Morris, that he will be pleaſed during his ſtay in Great Britain, to take upon him the Negotiating the Affairs of this Province, in Conjunction with our Agent Mr. Paris, in doing which he will greatly oblige the People of Pennſylvania.
